TO THE PARTIES

You must provide complete financial disclosure to the other parties in your case. A list of the documents you must provide to the other party is set out in Rule 13 of the Family Law Rules. You must list in this form all of the documents that you are providing to the other party in support of the information set out in your financial statement and update it each time additional documents are provided to the other party.

Once you have completed this form,

- if your case includes support with or without special expenses but does not include a claim under Part I of the Family Law Act (Family Property), you must:
  - collect all required documentation.
  - prepare this certificate.
  - serve this certificate with attached documentation on the other party with your completed Financial Statement.
- if your case includes a claim under Part I of the Family Law Act (Family Property) with or without a claim for support, you must:
  - collect all required documentation.
  - prepare this certificate.
  - serve this certificate with attached documentation on the other party within 30 days of the day that your Financial Statement was due to be served.

If all of your documents are not available within these timeframes, when the additional documents are provided to the other party, you should also update this certificate and provide it to the other party.

If you do not provide financial disclosure as required, a court may make an order against you.

You must file a copy of your most up to date certificate with the court. The documentation is not filed with the court. If you are the applicant or moving party in your case, you must file this certificate seven days before the case conference. If you are the respondent, you must serve it four days before the case conference.

If you have served any additional or updated financial disclosure before the settlement conference, you must prepare, serve and file an updated Certificate of Financial Disclosure.
